Brazilian Military Police Pictures

Brazilian Warriors Learn Maharishi's Invincible Defense Technology as Part of Their Training

Extensive scientific research shows that, through the Transcendental Meditation® program, practitioners experience greater calm, clearer perception, broader comprehension, greater alertness, and faster reactions. The Transcendental Meditation program complements the warriors' training.

Between 1987 and 1988 a number of Brazilian state governments introduced the Transcendental Meditation program to their military police. More than twenty-six thousand police officers of all ranks were instructed. Military Police work is often dangerous and extremely stressful.

The increasing demands of contemporary military police work are reflected in the many stress-related problems experienced by such personnel, including psychosomatic disease, high suicide rates, high divorce rates, reduced life span, increased disciplinary problems and poor community relations. Maharishi's Invincible Defence Technology is a holistic program which eliminates these stress-related problems and unfolds the warrior's full potential.
